Monday evening was unendurably lovely.

The day had been warm. Hot, some had said. It was 78 degrees at our house at noon. Possibly it was five or six degrees warmer than that up town; it usually is.

People wandered curiously in the sunlight, touched by its warm benedictions, wondering at color come alive, shadows slashed hard and sharp across bright planes and a sensuality in the air.

Flowers opened, spilling pungent and aromatic fragrance. Voices rang, music joyously sprang from suddenly thrust - open windows. Birds arched in grave exuberance across the blue vault of sky surprisingly revealed. An exultation of tremendous proportions seduced us from our gloom.

For the fog was gone away, unraveling its thrall on Lobos, releasing the bay from its moist, cold and vacant grasp, restoring glittering glances of light to the lagoon and distant manifestations on the Santa Lucias.

But the ripeness of declining evening was the most cordial; and the beach, where the sun clung reluctantly to the last, was the most beautiful.

Evening is a mood, embracing, still and sad. It is a time when people can sit on a bench, staring westward with solemn eyes at some insubstantial glow which seems to be the fading rapture of their dreams; when fires may curl their lonesome smoke directly skyward, and voices of joyful youth may shout their clever defiance at thrashing waves; when a dog may dash across the clean, wet slick of unmarked sand, barking impudently at the golden light and the ponderous progress of a pelican scanning closely the superficial bounty of the sea.

Evening is a time when day is done; when not all of the promises remain, but the glory of sunset's sadness is a richer fulfillment.

It was like this on Monday evening.

Briefly..

Agricultural Note — Gustave Flaubert, in his short story, Herodias, observes a sunrise illuminating "Carmel with fields of sesame." Gus, just as irresponsible as most other writers, was apparently misinformed. There is no agricultural zoning in the city. Furthermore, there is no place on the peninsula named Judea, En-Gedi, Hebron, Eshtaol, or Sorek—unless he had in mind a new law firm in Monterey.

Incredible Savannah—Joe Spinder advises that the charming city of Savannah, Georgia, has existed all these years in a rather heterotactic situation. That's enough to make any of us quiver with apprehension and urgently inquire into the details. Well, all right. Savannah is built on a bluff, its main street is Bull, it is full of squares, and it was formerly

Business District Rezoning Protests

The road to reclassification is not an easy one, and planning commission debate yesterday on ordinances to rezone property from C-1-S and C-2, to C-1-L, the limited hotel and motel zoning recently developed for entrances to the business district, gave evidence that these proceedings may face rough opposition.

Paul Hill, owner of property on both sides of San Carlos at Eighth Avenue said that San Carlos was not really an entrance; and furthermore, more limited zoning would "be a blow" to the value of his property, owned in the Hill family for forty years.

Milo F. Matteson, owner of a motel apartment on the southeast corner of Junipero and Third Avenue, protested the "downgrading" rezoning of his property, contending that property owners had a vested right (the law does not say so) to continue indefinitely the use the land enjoyed when purchased. He agreed, as most do, with the "buffer" concept long-championed by the city—but not at his expense. Instead, suggested Matteson, the buffer should be created outwards, in the residential district. More distressed than annoyed, the commission, through chairman pro tem Hugh Smith, gently advised Mr. Matteson that the ancient determination of the city to keep the business district within bounds was not likely to be reversed at this time.

To the protestants against re-

New Tax Rate

The forecast that the tax rate for 1962-63 might increase from 7 to 10 cents fell happily wide of the mark last night as the City Council adopted an imposing $542,-782 budget for the year, which will require a property tax of but 84 cents on each one hundred dollars of assessed valuation to finance it. The small increase, only three cents over the preceding year, was made possible by a big jump in assessed values and some fortunate carryovers from last year.

But the biggest single contribution was the strength reserved in the capital outlay depreciation fund, which provided all the cash necessary to meet the two major demands, for a new fire truck and a new street sweeper.

After adopting the budget with little comment and less fuss, the council immediately authorized the order for the fire equipment, a $27,000 American LaFrance pumper with a capacity of 1250 gallons, which is tentatively scheduled for delivery early in January, 1963. Getting the other major capital item on the road as well, the council instructed Street Superintendent William Askew, Jr. to buy a new Wayne street sweeper, at a cost close to the $10,000 budgeted figure. The advanced machine will replace the eleven-year old Elgin, the first sweeper ever owned by the City.

No Contribution Too Small

The Carmel Youth Center, apprehensive of its future, ambitious to brighten its image, and determined to conquer the rocky road to useful survival, commences tomorrow a drive for funds. Before it can be stamped as successful, money to support a $19,000 budget must be accumulated. To do this, galvanized and determined, the young people who belong to the center, some 450 in number, the adult board, composed of prominent persons representing government and civic groups, and considerate citizens in general have concentrated on this effort to resolve the nagging fund problem.

The Carmel Youth Center, a $50,000 plant at Torres and Fourth Avenue, came into being in a burst of private and civic generosity aroused in 1951. The feeling that a focus for the social energies of the youth of the community was needed had persisted in such earnest hearts as Fred Godwin and P. A. McCreery for some time. Encouraged by their ample energies and the sincere vigor of their convictions, the Bing Crosby Foundation provided the funds; individuals, businesses and the unions provided the raw essentials; and the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea provided the land, on a long-term lease. A useful and attractive building resulted.

Whether or not much thought was given at the time to the day-to-day operation of the elaborate plant, the Center prospered through the years by means of benefits, contributions from the Community Chest and the Carmel Unified School District, and modest donations. But in recent years, in increasingly troubled circumstances, the Center has seen the annual $2,400 from the Community Chest and the annual $3,500 from the school district dwindle and eventually expire.

During the past year a crisis was reached. The dependable revenues were diminished or withdrawn. The youth board and the adult board—not altogether free of dissention — were unavoidably confronted with the question of continued operation. It would be unduly generous to say that the response to the grave challenge was characteristic, for other areas have seen such activities crumple beneath the problem. But imagination, determination, and a certain eager belief in the destinies of the

The Crosby Foundation provided funds for the acquisition of three food trailers, and the Del Monte Properties Co. assigned solely to the Center the function of vending foods at the several popular events which take place annually at Pebble Beach, notably the Bing Crosby Invitational Golf Tournament.

Now the youth members themselves, thrown on their own resources, are earning nearly $7,000 a year in support of their activities by means of these concessions. Dances, benefits, a useful snack bar in the center, and other activities are contributing additional funds. It is a sparkling example of self-reliance and fruitful to a considerable degree, this ambitious devotion of the kids around us to find their own solution to a financial problem sometimes baffling to their adult advisors. But it is patently obvious that ambition and enthusiasm are not alone going to span the considerable gap between the funds thus derived and an operating budget of not inconsequential proportions. The community, which once provided the difference through tax bites and the rigid contributions of collective charities, must face the fact that the need for continued support has not diminished, though the conventional means may have disappeared.

Actually, the direct and unvarnished responsibility is something which both the center and the community has needed. Confronted with the uncomplicated social responsibility, people may clearly see what is needed — money — and the consequences of their failure to respond—a dark, dismal unused mecca to which the young have thronged for eleven years.

The center, while previously supported in the easy and oblivious environment of governmental and charitable condescension, had been nevertheless subject to the quibbling and unavoidable scrutiny which of necessity accompanies such patronage; for institutional support, whether governmental or otherwise, carries with it a degree of submission to control. Public funds demand public responsibility, and the center discovered more than once its susceptibility to the inquisitive prerogatives of other authorities.

If the Center will continue to prosper it will do so as the result of independent public support. If the public supports the members' determination to succeed in this condition, the center will continue to be the useful and cherished auxiliary to the young person's stimulating encounter with maturity. If the public does not support this drive—and no one but the individual and his contributions remains —Carmel could very well find eleven years of lively and purposeful history closed down in gloomy rejection of an inspiration not lacking in its own peculiar and incorrigible nobility.

Donations, which are tax-deductible, may be sent to P. O. Box 2399, Carmel, and contributions in any amount will be sincerely appreciated.

Give To Keep Carmel Youth Secure and Centered

Days Before Yesterday

Editor's Note: The following letter, rich in poignant and happy recollection, was received by Orville Rogers, principal of Sunset School, from a member of the graduating class of 1937 who, for obvious reasons, was unable to attend the recent reunion of that class. His letter, prompted by the story carried in the Pine Cone on 17 May, makes delightful reading.

I seem to have strayed farther from Carmel than other members of the graduating class of 1937 and perhaps for that reason will be excused for responding so belatedly to the invitation of the class of 1962 to attend their graduation on June 14. The Pine Cone arrives in Athens by a meandering route and I only recently received the May 17 issue with its account of our own graduation twenty-five years ago.

For a good many of us 1937 marked the end of our life in Carmel. When we returned after that we were visitors, and even those who remained were conscious that things would be different in the fall at Monterey High, where they played hard ball and the girls wore lipstick. Carmel in those days was a paradise for dogs and children and we had, I think, the uneasy feeling that once lost it might be difficult to regain. I remember being overtaken by a sober mood, which seems to have been communicated to at least one of our teachers who wrote in my autograph book, "Good luck in your future endeavors". I was twelve at the time and the words had a dreadful ring.

Sunset was a marvelous school, the most imaginative and helpful I have attended. Mr. Bardarson was a somewhat remote figure and aside from one or two nerve-wracking visits to his office I remember him best as a catcher and team captain in the Abalone league. His son Baird was a class or two behind us. I realize now that Mr. Bardarson must have been a remarkable principal. Sunset had, and I am sure still has, a great deal of vitality: in the seventh grade, when we studied the settlement of the American West, I recall that all the members of the class became members of a wagon train and kept diaries of our progress across the great plains and the adventures that befell us; when Edward VIII abdicated we trooped down to the auditorium and listened to his farewell address over the radio (and were embarrassed by his reference to the "woman I love"); we had current events classes as early as the fifth or sixth grade and made predictions about the outcome of the 1936 presidential elections (which were probably no more ingenuous than those of the Literary Digest, which was our required reading at the time).

The main thing, of course, was that Sunset was inseparable from Carmel itself, which I think belonged more to us—the children and the dogs—than to anyone else. Whatever has changed in Carmel, I hope that the class of 1962 has the same sense of possession. It reflects something akin to perfect knowledge, and twenty-five years later its proportions seem no less harmonious and reassuring.

I am sorry to have missed the last graduation and shall have to wait for the next shipment of Pine Cones to learn who was there. I hope there was time for a special tribute to Julia Breinig, who steered many of us through first grade and provided the best possible introduction to Sunset, and to Frances Johnston, our teacher in both the sixth and seventh grades who, among her other labors, directed us in a memorable production of Robin Hood, in which Jackie Klein played Maid Marion, Dick Williams, Friar Tuck, and Bill Coffin the title role. In that production I played a somewhat shrinking version of Richard the Lionhearted and can still hear Mrs. Johnston's kindly but admonitory voice saying, "That's better . . . but you must try to be more kingly!"

With best wishes to my classmates, both of 1937 and 1962,

Sincerely,
Monty Stearns

Cable In Monterey

Howard F. Bruggeman, president of the Alarm Corporation, which operates the television cable system long familiar to residents of Carmel, has announced that the company commenced on last Tuesday to lay the initial link in their cable system in the City of Monterey. This first step in the exercise of a franchise bitterly fought over, and ultimately resolved by the voters of that community, will result in the weaving of a five-mile network of cable on utility poles and will require some five weeks to complete.

In the meanwhile, Bruggeman notes, the company has replaced over 30,000 feet of cable this year on this side of the hill, a project which has resulted in several reports of improved reception.

Just imagine a single kitchen appliance that stores, thaws, cooks and delivers delicious meals to the table — at the touch of a finger! Unbelievable? Not when you remember that many of today's familiar appliances seemed just as fantastic years ago . . . things like TV, clothes dryers, dishwashers. And here's another surprising fact: although new appliances increase your monthly PG&E bill—the price of PG&E gas and electricity in a typical home is actually 8% less than 30 years ago!

Where There's Life

By Andre Hope

Last week I said we would divulge some of the secrets of San Francisco chefs. I am just now getting letters from them—some so secret they practically come in plain wrappers. So, this time we will content ourselves with one. Cocktail time in the Redwood Room at the Clift; chefs in hats that look like vanilla souffles, serve a warm little goody which combines small beaten biscuits with thinly sliced ham. The biscuits are heated in a chafing dish. Delicious and easy to do at home, as packaged beaten biscuits and fine ham are available at most of our local fine food shops. . . .

While on the subject, one of our readers, who didn't have an elephant's foot on hand, but was gifted with a pair of nude peacocks, asked me for the recipe for these exotic birds. To me this happened several years ago. I thought it was a gag. I admired the little creature who looked like a hen turkey, "But who's that character with the posterior pin cushion?" I found out. I also discovered how to render them edible for the table. Being almost completely white meat, you stuff them with fruit and celery (I prefer grapes) and about one-half pound butter. Drench the outside with butter. Cook in a moderate oven for the same time one would a turkey. Keep basting with butter and for the last hour sweet white wine or sherry. The bird may never strut again, but you may. . . . I often wonder whatever became of the feathers! . . . .

Birds of fine feather sometimes need an agent to be noticed. Carmel now has its very first. Sylvia Goldman, operating under the name of Goldman Productions, will audition each month musicians, vocalists, comedians and all talent who would be interested in booking. She is the personal manager of Lorenzo, internationally known as a member of the Ink Spots, who is now appearing at Wonder Lodge in Salinas. Dust off your dancing shoes, Honey. Everything may be coming up Rose's—or in this case, yours and Sylvia's. . . .

Something new every week; this one, Highlands Inn has given birth. Stopped by there at the usual sunset hour the other day after visiting the Meadors' art gallery. The Meadors have moved to Mendocino County and their place will soon be in the talented hands of artist Bennett Bradbury. While trotting through the lobby of Highlands Inn, I noticed a new door in the wall off the lobby. Guess what? New banquet room; windows over Point Lobos, magnificent fireplace, comfortable-looking decor. Mr. Reed says they are available for anything (anyone?) up to 250 for cocktail parties, wedding receptions, banquets, and—you know. . . .

As long as it was such a beautiful day, we wandered on down to the Big Sur for a picnic, featuring Mother Hope's Chicken Pies. Easiest picnic fare imaginable. Just fry or broil cut-up chicken your way; split round loaves of French bread so that you have a top and bottom. Hollow out the loaves, brush with butter and heat in oven; pour chicken dripping in. Put one chicken in each—wrap with foil and tie with string. Comes to the picnic warm. Tear off bits of bread to eat with chicken and a salad. End with cheese and fruit — don't forget chilled beer or white wine. And, as we always have, equal parts of sand, ants, wind and sun-burn. It's all delicious. And may your week end be long, lazy and luscious!

Japan's Top TV Team Films Carmelites

Carmelites on Ocean Avenue and Dolores Street, in the Doud Arcade and Craft Studios, or at the Mission, on Monday morning will appear on a nationwide television broadcast in Japan showing the people, customs and costumes of this country.

The top Japanese television travelogue group, with this purpose in mind, filmed sequences in Carmel that day, also in Carmel Highlands, Monterey and on Cannery Row under the joint sponsorship of Pan American Airways and Mitsui Bussan Ltd., Japan's largest trading company.

The travelogue group was headed by Miss Kaoru Kanetaka, Japan's foremost woman traveler and travel writer, who has visited every continent in her search for material, and whose recently published second travel book is a best seller in her native land.

With her were Producer Kei Takahashi and Cameraman Tanehisa Watanabe. The three won the 1962 award for the best Japanese television program.

The Visitors Association of the Monterey Peninsula arranged the local tour for the group and on the committee were Gallatin Powers, Paul Reed, Leo Tanous, Robert McKever and Jack Dougherty. Mr. McKever drove the visitors about in an open convertible and they were also accompanied by Mrs. Sue Wiseman.

Featured in the documentary filming of Carmel were two cocker spaniels at a sidewalk hitching post. The Japanese visitors took sequences of Gus and Frances Arriola in their shop, also jewelry being created in Studio 7.

The tour began at Highlands Inn, especially interesting to the Japanese group as Crown Prince Akihito stayed there on a visit here. They next filmed the Mission, and players at the 16th hole at Cypress Point Golf Club, then came to Carmel and continued on to Monterey for pictures of Dennis the Menace playground, historic adobes and the former Pacific Biological Laboratory on Cannery Row made famous by John Steinbeck, also the deserted fish canneries to point out the need for conservation of natural resources. The adobes they used as illustration of the fact that Americans do care about preserving their past. Impressed with California freeways, the Japanese TV group were interested to learn that on the Monterey Peninsula retaining natural beauty is more important to the people than speedways.

Miss Kanetaka was interested to learn that Pierre Salinger's mother, Mrs. Jerome Carlson, lives in Carmel as the group will film a special program on Mr. Salinger in Washington, D.C.

"We want to show the Japanese how Americans live," Miss Kanetaka remarked and added that while in this country the group will film sequences of American homes, schools, the humorous aspects of life in this country, the histories and economics of cities.

Blacows On The Move

Monterey Peninsula College faculty member Dr. Joseph D. Blacow and Mrs. Blacow will, within a month or two, move from Pacific Grove into their new home on La Rancheria Road in Carmel Valley, a house they brought and are now remodelling.

Soon after this they plan a trip "around the world in two installments," first going to the Orient and Australia, then, after returning home to catch their breath, off in the other direction to Europe. This will be a sabbatical leave trip for Dr. Blacow, longtime instructor in the business education department at the college.

The last time the Blacows were in Europe was in the summer of 1960, when they travelled behind the Iron Curtain. "That time my wife had her birthday in Moscow; she is much happier celebrating it this year here at home," Dr. Blacow observes.

Returned From World Trip

Mrs. Edythe Dallas has returned to Carmel from a nine months' world trip. She sailed from New York last December, spent five months travelling throughout Europe, then took a ship from Genoa to the Orient by way of Cairo, Pakistan and India, and finally home after visits in Hong Kong, Japan and Hawaii.

Now that she is back in Carmel, Mrs. Dallas will resume her transcriptions of school textbooks into braille for the special class for visually handicapped children at Del Rey School in Seaside. Special instruction in braille is given the children, and then with the aid of tape recordings they are able to join the regular school classes and follow the textbooks from their numbered page transcriptions. This is volunteer work. The school system supplies the needed materials, Mrs. Dallas explains, "and it is very rewarding," she adds.

CHARM

By Joan Imig

Charm is a unique quality which shines like a lamp upon those within its radiance. It's an extra something — we can do without charm, but it's dull and boresome to do so because the luxury and grace of charm takes us out of the mediocre, stamps a loveliness on place and person.

Charm raises our lives out of the humdrum and makes it possible for us to express our individuality — that is why charm is a unique quality. You'll find a house nourished by individualism and loving care a charming house because it has taken on the character of the owner. You'll find a person charming who has found the time to develop an individual personality. Still it is more than individualism, because charm is a softness — a glow, an added something which sends out light and warmth.

A very good example of charm can be found at the Ruth Manning Studios in San Francisco—DOuglas 2-8900 — offering outstanding career girls, models, airline hostesses — all charming — and attractive—as escorts for the enjoyment of an evening of gayety in San Francisco. Gentlemen — why be alone?

Sports . . .

Sport Cars

BY ED LESLIE

When Ford and General Motors entered the small car field something had to give, as American mass production methods shook up the imported car market like television shook up the living room.

Some European manufacturers lowered prices; Renault was successful doing this. Fiat decided to keep their good dealers, refraining from forcing cars into their inventories. Triumph installed factory distributorships in major markets, complete with enormous parts inventories. Porsche kept production down, quality up and zealously protected dealers' markups.

Volkswagen dealers, always high on service and quality sales and service centers, offered some very American attractions, like a synchromesh first gear. They also tossed in color-harmonied interiors, subdued but pretty, and went right on selling cars, with the help of some of the finest advertisements appearing in American print.

British Motors, a sprawling empire in the United Kingdom, did everything at once. They divided their dealerships so that one dealer didn't have so many types competing with one another on his floor. They absorbed other lines and specialty companies and came up with high performance bombs, such as the Mini Cooper. Color and options enthusiastically blossomed in the option books—limited slip differentials, wide-base wheels, disc brakes and Kleenex dispensers.

In Germany, the Opel and Taunus restyled completely. England's huge Ford plant followed earnestly with breezy Anglia and Consul models. Ford, riding two horses, left the Zephyr Six in England, to avoid competition with its American cousin, the Falcon.

Truly beautiful cars of international design and development ambitiously appeared. Volvo took years developing a Grand Touring coupe, building the body in England and powering it with their own Swedish engine. Borgward, overreached, went under after trying too many styles and sizes for the small company. Renault added special bodies and power packages via a tie-in with Gordini. Triumph went to Italy, to Michelloti, for styling. Their TR-4, aimed at the peculiarities of the American, has roll-up windows and good trunk space. The TR-10 adopted a 1200 cc engine, and followed with a small 1600 cc, six cylinder engine in the Herald convertible. Some cars simply bought the features of other cars and incorporated them in their own products, such as the big Triumph engine in the classic Morgan, the Ford 105E and 109E in a clutch of British cars.

Studebaker is eagerly involved with Raymond Loewy, plastic and the startling Avanti. Corvette has a GT coupe and roadster. Ford has something tremendous going at Colin Chapman's Lotus Works, London, and considering Ford's wholly-owned capacity, plus the innumerable racing cars in many lands, which are Ford - powered, it is compelling logic to expect Chapman to develop something for Ford as Cooper did for British Motors.

SPORTS CARS AT COTATI

Temperatures in the 100's scorched both sports car drivers and machinery last week end at Cotati Raceways as the San Francisco Region, SCCA, conducted two days of racing for the benefit of the May T. Morrison Rehabilitation center.

Eleanor McPartland, publicist for the Monterey Racing Team, reports that in the formula junior event, always a crowd pleaser, Ed Leslie of Carmel Valley was not only the favorite driver, but also had the fastest car, the Gemini, a demonstrably unbeatable combination on Saturday when he won. A cinch bet for Sunday, he led until the seventh lap when his right front tire went flat and Ed joggled into the pits. Chuck Tannlund, San Francisco, driving formula junior for the first time, won in a BMC three ahead of Larry Yates, San Jose, in a Cooper. Rod Carveth, Woodside, Lotus 20, was third.

Driving a Lotus 7A, Peter Stuber, Pebble Beach, missed out on Saturday's qualifying because of a leaking gasket. With the help of Allan Patterson, Carmel, (pitting for Pete instead of racing his surprising Elva Courier last week end) new studs were located and installed early Sunday morning, and Stuber, not too sanguine about his chances, went out to do his best anyway. The engine overheated, Pete had to watch the needles and baby it along, moved up from last starting grid position to sixth overall. Bob Bent, Hillsborough was first, Bill Coelho, Merced, second, and Ted Herman, Stockton, third —all driving Lotus 7A's.

At the next races at Santa Barbara, 1 and 2 September, Don Wester, Porsche and Volkswagen dealer of Monterey, outstanding member of the Monterey Racing Team and a great favorite at the track in his yellow Porsche Carrera, will race in the modified, main event category, driving his newly bought Porsche RSK. Don, who traded horses and then some with Bob Yeakel of Seattle, has the know how to prepare a very hot Porsche, the skill and guts to make it go the limit.

Valley Horsemen's 14th Annual Rodeo

Last Sunday, at the Holman Ranch in Carmel Valley, the Carmel Valley Horsemen's Association presented their 14th Annual Roundup. Under a broiling sun tempered with brisk breezes, the roundup commenced with a parade from the village participated in by over 100 horsemen. Flags flying, they entered the arena to conduct a solemn and moving ceremony honoring the memory of the late C. W. Holman, good friend of horsemen in the valley for years.

Mr. Holman's horse, saddled and bridled, was led silently to the center of the vast corral, where a floral wreath was placed about his withers. While the throng stood reverently and silent, Dick Silva read a eulogy. A bouquet was presented to Mrs. Holman. Then the breeze fled across the golden hills the kind man had loved and the day stirred once again to its purpose.

Carmel and Carmel Valley entries did not fare spectacularly during the day-long sequence of events, some 15 in all. Susan Pullman of Carmel Valley took 4th place in the trail class, Bill Harder of Monterey took 2nd in the barrel race, age 18 and over, Betty Wilson of Carmel Valley received a 4th award in the halter class, Mary Shorey, Carmel Valley, and Fred Alm, Gonzales, brought a 3rd in the mixed team roping, Susie Votaw of Carmel Valley was awarded 4th in calf riding.

Pete Pedrazzi of Salinas, teamed with Leo Berta of Carmel Valley, captured 4th in invitational team roping. In the horsemanship event, 12 years old and under, Chris Halle of Carmel was awarded 4th place, and Susie Votaw of Carmel Valley was given 5th place. In the 13-17 age bracket for the same event, Margo Burnett of Carmel gained a 4th.

The roundup also featured an exhibit of the Kellogg-bred arabian stallion, "Rabashi," owned by Beuford Clark, of the BL Clark training stables in the valley.

National Rifles In Competition

The country's largest sports event, the 1962 National Pistol and Rifle Championships, are being held at Camp Perry, Ohio, until 26 August. A record entry list of over 6,000 of the nation's top marksmen — civilian and armed forces — are shooting in over 100 individual firing events, over a five week period, to determine the individual championships at stake.

Army Master Sergeant William B. Blankenship, of Columbus, Ga., the 1960-61 defending national pistol title-holder will be gunning for his third straight win over a field of 2400 challengers.

The defending women's pistol champion, Miss Lucille Chambliss, of Winter Haven, Florida, will be shooting for her fourth title, having first won in 1954 and repeating in 1960 and 1961. Three straight wins in her division will not be a new record as Mrs. Gertrude Backstrom, of Hoquiam, Washington, won four in a row from 1954 through 1958.

The National Smallbore (.22 caliber) Rifle Championships will follow the pistol events. Airman 3rd Class Victor L. Auer, of Brea, California, will defend his national crown against 800 competitors.

Auer's chances of defending successfully are slim. In the 39 times the smallbore title has been at stake since 1919 only two men have won in successive years. Bill Woodring, of New Haven, Connecticut, put three in a row together from 1936 to 38, and G. Wayne Moore, of Washington, Pennsylvania, strung two in 1946 and 1947.

The big guns of the world's largest shooting tournament, the .30 caliber rifles, take over the mile-long firing line from Friday, 17 August to Sunday, 26 August, with 3,000 highpower rifle shooters behind them. The highpower championships are fired in two divisions.

Critic's Choice Next Circle Play

The private and professional life of a New York drama critic comes under satiric scrutiny in the next offering of the Golden Bough Circle Theatre. Ira Levin's new comedy, Critic's Choice, is set to open 24 August, and will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings for the next six weeks.

Levin's script is based on a passage from How Not to Write a Play, by Walter Kerr, chief reviewer for the New York Herald Tribune and husband of humorist and playwright Jean Kerr. In his book, Kerr reflects with tongue in cheek on the plight of the critic who feels in duty bound to review his own wife's play. Levin has carried this embarrassing situation to its logical and hilarious conclusion. His comedy is crammed with characters and allusions fresh from the Broadway scene.

Henry Fonda starred in the New York production of Critic's Choice, which opened in 1960 and ran through the spring of 1961. Bob Hope has been selected to star in a movie version now in the making.

The play will be staged in-the-round by director Frederick Rider, with Barbara Tripp, who created the eye-catching set for The Pleasure of His Company, as designer.

Symphony Guild To Revise By-Laws

Monterey County Symphony Guild members, this week, received requests for 1962-63 dues and a financial statement showing funds donated last year to support the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, from Mrs. Frank G. Ringland, guild president.

The guild made a cash donation of $3,630 to the symphony association last year, in addition to spending $1,754 for items including preview teas and refreshments at orchestra rehearsals.

The guild received $1,030 from memberships and donations; realized $2,437 from a fashion show; and $1,568 from a pops concert. Interest on savings last year gave the guild $400. Total cash assets on 1 June amounted to $8,010.

Pledges in 1962-63 are $2,500 to the symphony association; $2,000 toward the orchestra conductor's salary; also, in 1963-64, an additional $3,000 for the latter purpose. Total cash assets of the guild, still unpledged, are, $510.

Mrs. Ringland and Mrs. Austin Frey, by-laws chairman, also ask members to meet with guild officers and executive board on 6 September at the Mark Thomas Inn, 10 a.m., to discuss a general revision of the by-laws arising from the great growth of the guild.

He left Canton just before the Communists took over the city and under the auspices of the Aid Refugee Chinese Intellectuals organization has become a permanent resident of San Francisco.

In the past 11 years, Mr. Lee has had six one-man shows and exhibited his work at the San Francisco Museum of Art.

Forest Theater Audiences Caught By Inchling Magic

BY VALENTINE MILLER

The Forest Theater and its tall guardian pines encompassed a small, enchanted world on Friday and Saturday nights during the production, for the fourth time in the theater's history, of Rem Remsen's fantasy, Inchling. An enthusiastic audience, including several first and second generation Inchling veterans, each night plunged happily under the magic spell cast by 60 Carmel children, aged five to 13, as they acted out the story of the little inchworm who wants so desperately to fly and, in the absolute nick of time, turns out to be a butterfly after all.

Nancy (Mrs. Richard) Lofton, director of the play, which was sponsored by the summer recreation program of the Carmel Unified School District, skillfully and with a particular magic of her own revealed an astonishing range of talent among the young actors. Each of them, at ease upon the stage, performed without a trace of self-consciousness and with apparent whole-hearted delight. Everyone was obviously having a wonderful time!

Melissa Lofton was beautifully cast as the Puckish "elfin spirit," Gyem-of-the-Woods, interpreting the role with grace and charm. Marc Duskin as the hero, a little inchworm who longs for wings, was a completely appealing Inchling, adding to the part a certain fey touch that was just right. Diminutive Laurie Doud played a touching and captivating Golden Wings, the butterfly heroine, displaying considerable stage presence. The anxious widow, Lady Bug, always worried about home and children, was delightfully portrayed by Pamela Whitworth; this was a real portrait of a very true-to-life "person." As Lady Bug's suitor, the gallant Fire Fly, Joe Nesbitt drew a particularly warm response from the audience for his fine comic sense and for the enthusiasm with which he threw himself into his part.

The audience and the small players behind the wings alike hissed the villian, the Terrible Mosquito, a role to which Mike Filatiev, with obvious relish, brought an appropriately sinister quality. Tim Dahlberg and Carol-Ann Henderson were well cast as Mr. and Mrs. Inchworm, Inchling's troubled parents, thoroughly at ease in their parts.

Lisa Maas was a perky First Robin of spring; and the two Muds (or Mud) were an excellent (and muddy) comic team, played by Bill Edwards and Ricky Taylor with the assistance of a talented canine. Of the countless number of busily scurrying ants connected with Mr. Inchworm's factory for leaves, Chris Osserman as the Wee Ant, who checks Inchling's erratic measuring of leaf material; Carol Heisel as the Foreman; Lindy Doud as the Head Cutter; and Debby Erk as the Second Cutter, all performed with verve. Among the Terrible Mosquito's bloodthirsty band, Philip Goulding as the Sentry; Twig Stephenson, Debby Erk and Kim Dennis as First, Second and Third Soldier acquitted themselves capably.

The other denizens of the forest, all the way from the hopping frog (Janie Miller) in the opening scene to Mr. Snail (Noel Fry) "who arrives too late to get in the play," and including ants, mosquitos, dewdrops, and the gorgeous 30-foot long worm (supported by seven pairs of small legs), added immeasurably to the dramatic effect of the play. Special mention should be made of the Fireflies (Terry Head, Kim Dennis, Debby Erk, Tina Benedict, Libby Brown, Paula Besel, Roberta Fry and Betty Crittenden) and their glimmering dance on the darkened stage at the close of Act I; the mysterious Bats (Terry Head, Kim Dennis, Debby Erk, Paula Besel, Tina Benedict and Libby Brown) who danced in Act II; and the Leaves, expertly "tumbled" in Act I by Alesa Smith, Anne Neill, Shirley Bouchet, Nancy Coss and Helen Sedletzky.

The imaginative costumes, simple and effective, were designed and executed by Mrs. Lofton's older daughter, Nancy, as were the delightful sets which included the inchworms' acorn house, the leaf factory, and a giant daisy. Her able assistants were Mildred Koch of the Monterey city schools, Mrs. Toland Doud, Mrs. Alvin Duskin, Mrs. George Walker, Gemma Nesbitt, Judy Levine, "and many ants." Joanne Nix was the choreographer. Recorded music of Chopin, Boccherini, Gounod, Bizet and Moussorgsky added to the charm of the production.

It is to be hoped that from now on, as part of the summer recreation program, a children's play will become a yearly event at the Forest Theater. Already the little "bug-people," who for six weeks lived and breathed Inchling, and with their devoted director achieved last week end's success, are looking forward to another possible production next summer. What play would they like to put on? Inchling, of course!

Mexican National Theatre Founder Tells About Dream For The Future

The quiet beauty of Carmel is being fully appreciated this month by Luz Alba, founder and former director of the National Theatre of Mexico.

Small, vivid, dark-haired, she explains in a melodiously modulated voice that she founded the Mexican national theatre in 1942 because she believed the United States and Latin America could be brought to fuller understanding through dramatic productions. Today, still inspired with this idea, she is working to bring translated Latin American plays to this country, also present, in translation, the work of United States playwrights in Latin America.

Until Luz Alba founded the national theatre in 1942, the only dramatic productions in Mexico were presented by visiting theatrical companies, mostly from Spain.

She gathered together her first group of actors and actresses from all walks of life in the Mexican capital and started rehearsals for Oscar Wilde's Salome, translated into Spanish.

Impressed with the work being done at these rehearsals, the Mexican government official in charge of the nation's theatre, the Instituto Nacional de Bellas Artes, gave Luz Alba permission to present this and subsequent plays in the national theatre.

Rehearsals were held in an old, falling-down building, La Rinconada de San Diego, the first convent established in Mexico. Each group spent seven or eight months rehearsing and presenting a play.

The second production of the National Theatre of Mexico was a translated version of Eugene O'Neill's Mourning Becomes Electra, and Diego Rivera designed the sets.

Later productions had sets by Clemente Orozco and Roberto Montenegro, among other famed artists of Mexico.

When Luz Alba left Mexico in 1959 to live in San Francisco with her mother, Mrs. Emilia Levin, and be near her young daughter, Emilia Rubio, then a music student at the University of the Pacific, she left in Mexico many national theatre groups which she had started, "doing exciting work with many promising directors," she says.

Their former director is doing exciting work, too. She is endeavoring to establish exchange productions of plays by dramatists of all countries in North and South America.

It is a big venture, but so was the establishment of the National Theatre of Mexico, and Luz Alba's enthusiasm hasn't flagged. Already she has talked with many persons and groups in this country and found enthusiasm for her project. When she has adequate financial support, her dream will become reality.

But this month she is resting in Carmel. "It is a pleasure and a privilege to be here," she says. Though some of her stay has been shadowed by fog, Luz Alba doesn't mind. "I love Carmel," she declares.

Writer Gives Advice To Budding Authors

by Helen Bratton

"If you don't read, you can't write," said Adela Rogers St. Johns, the celebrated fiction writer, to Maxine Shore's writing class at Carmel High School, last week. "You can't write, if you don't live. The beginning and end of all writing is to have something to say."

Mrs. St. Johns lives, abundantly. Her day began at 5 a.m. Seventeen hours later she was still discharging energy, enthusiasm, and magnetism, along with the wisdom garnered in a long writing career, which began at the age of 17 as a reporter on a Hearst newspaper.

"Professional writing requires a lot of material," she said. "Keep your reservoirs filling up, your reaction points quick. Be excited about Willie May's two home runs. The first interest of the American public is for a man to have a legitimate interest in sports. Sports language is vivid and a short cut in vocabulary, sparkle, and intensity. Don't try to write for a rugged male in waltz time.

"Build people out of flesh and blood. Know how they act under stress. If events don't happen to people you have learned to care about, the reader couldn't care less. Beginnings are important. The moment which will most interest your reader is the place to start. Once you know what you want to say you will have no trouble saying it, then cut, cut, cut, until you can't cut another word."

References to writers, present and past, sparkled through her talk. A Kipling story was picked as best by a large group of writers, voting in secret, with the Prodigal Son rated second. She admitted to a liking for "corn" but likes it well done. Keats, she said, had the greatest writing ability the world has ever seen; like Mozart, he was plugged into a divine circuit. The class felt as if it, too, were plugged into an amazing, vitalizing personality while listening to Mrs. St. Johns.

Mrs. St. Johns To Autograph New Book

On Saturday afternoon from 3-5:30 o'clock, Adela Rogers St. Johns will autograph copies of her latest book, Final Verdict, in the Wells Book Store, Henry Meade Williams, owner of the Ocean Avenue shop, announces.

Mrs. St. Johns's book is about her father, Earl Rogers, a Californian and one of the great criminal lawyers of the United States. Included in Mrs. St. Johns's accounts of his famous defense cases are the trials of persons accused of graft following the San Francisco earthquake and fire in 1906.

Carmel is also mentioned in the book. Mrs. St. Johns tells how she and her father came to Carmel in the early 1900s, on horseback, and picnicked on the beach with George Sterling, James Hopper and Jack London, her godfather.

Later she owned a house here and in it wrote her first book, A Free Soul. This was a fiction version of her famous father's life.

Mrs. St. Johns will leave Monday after spending the summer in Carmel. Final Verdict will be released by the Doubleday publishing house tomorrow. Saturday's autograph party here will be the first for this book, she announces.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

The scuttlebut on Steinbeck's new book, Travels with Charlie, is that it is already out of print, due to a miscalculation of popularity on the part of its publishers. We ordered a copy months ago through the county library and bought one locally. But various librarians have reported that even after ordering it pre-publication, they received no copies but an out-of-print notice instead. This is a sad state of affairs in Steinbeck-country. Try to read it quickly and treat it kindly so we can pass it along to the next reader. It goes into circulation this week. As you no doubt know, it is the chronicle of a journey by a man and his dog, a journey which took them both in a circuitous route around the country. This was a journey of love for John Steinbeck, love of his country and his fellow Americans. He talked, he argued, he observed, and then he wrote the book, Travels with Charlie. P.S. Charlie is the dog.

We have three new biographies this week, all interesting in certain ways. Uneasy Lies the Head is the title of an autobiography of King Hussein I of Jordan. This is the unquiet Middle East, and the unquiet life of the man whose destiny it was and is to rule the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan. He tells of his dismissal of Glubb Pasha and why it seemed necessary to do so, of his two marriages, and his children. But most of all he tells of his daily life as a monarch and of the continued unrest and turmoil of his part of the world and what this unrest may lead to.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt is the subject of a biography by William Smith White, the title of which is Majesty and Mischief. Author White is a Washington newspaperman who has done two earlier books, one a Pulitzer Prize-winning biography entitled The Taft Story and the other Citadel, a book about the U.S. Senate. This book begins with the death of Roosevelt and goes on from there to trace the results of that death both here and abroad.

Her name was Jenny Lind but to all the world she was the Swedish Nightingale, a girl who could sing like the bird for whom she was named, and who came to this country under the management of P. T. Barnum. A new biography is by Gladys Denny Schultz and is called simply Jenny Lind. Mrs. Schultz writes of her in a warm and sympathetic fashion, using as source material much that was not available for previous biographies of the famous singer.

Frank Gilbreth who wrote a book and coined a phrase, Cheaper by the Dozen, has a new book just out entitled He's My Boy. Here again he writes from experience, for this boy is his four-year-old son Teddy who was born as a late dividend in his father's middle years. Gilbreth says that such children are "opportunity's second knock—a mirror of one's own tarnished innocence." Certainly they are to be enjoyed more than the earlier ones, born at a time when responsibility bears down on the young parent and gentle joy flies out the window. He's My Boy is funny and enjoyable for parents or the childless, middle-aged or young. In fact, just anybody.

Of course there are new novels.

Property Values Up Ten Per Cent

The monthly luncheon meeting of the Carmel Realty Board, held last Friday at the Pine Inn, heard a talk by Court Randolph, appraiser in the office of Charles Lunt, on systematic evaluation of property, based in measure upon the methods of Marshall & Stevens, national appraisal firm. Thirty-two members attended the luncheon followed by a workshop study of the system as outlined by Randolph, who noted in the course of his talk that the coast counties are bracketed by the Marshall & Stevens guide with a construction cost factor exceeding the national average by 5%.

Appraiser Herb Brownell, taking part in the discussion following the talk by Randolph commented that "across the board, everything in Monterey County increases in value 10% each year." He cited, as a particularly acute example, prices for land in Marina, "which, a few years ago, were practically nothing, but which have increased 100% since then."

American Legion Leader Lashes State

Terming a $1,000,000 saving recently claimed by the state department of Veterans Affairs as "blood-money economy," new State Commander A. Lee Oder of the American Legion has waded into the thick of a rousing political squabble last week. Order, with the blessing of the Legion state executive committee, lashed out at the "tongue in cheek" assertions that new administrative policies of the department were responsible for the savings. "The truth of the matter is," says an incensed Oder, "the state has eliminated many of the essential services previously performed."

It is Oder's contention that the things eliminated—help in establishing and justifying claims—is just the sort of essential work that the department should be performing. Propelling himself further, though somewhat obliquely, Mr. Oder seizes the chance to announce how well prepared the Legion itself is, to process claims.

Business Report

Copies of the First Progress Report of the White House Committee on Small Business are available at the San Francisco office of the Small Business Administration, 525 Market Street, SBA Regional Director Edward L. Turkington, announced today.

The report, which reviews the first year's activities of the Committee, describes Federal actions taken in behalf of small business, recommends additional steps to improve the position of small business, and reviews problems facing the American small businessman.

In accepting the Committee's report, President Kennedy said that his Administration is "determined to insure a strong, diversified foundation of healthy small firms." To accomplish this objective, the President set these goals: Expanding markets for American enterprises, Preservation of the American system of free and open competition, Constructive policies and programs in behalf of small business.

The Progress Report is the second to be issued by the White House Committee on Small Business. A previous report, issued in May, reviews the contributions of small business to the American economy and the role the Federal Government should play in encouraging and assisting small firms.

DUCK FLIGHTS DECLINE

A decline in this fall's duck flights in all four of the nation's waterfowl flyways has been forecast by the Department of the Interior. Despite reports that a drought of several year's duration in the continent's primary "duck factory" on the northern prairies may be breaking, a pessimistic finding that the nesting population is down 17 per cent from last year, and a very spotty improvement in water conditions suggest a disappointing barrenness in the fall flight.

ORDINANCE NO. 47 C. S.
AN ORDINANCE IMPOSING A LICENSE TAX FOR THE PRIVILEGE OF RENTING ACCOMMODATIONS TO TRANSIENTS; PROVIDING FOR THE COLLECTING AND PAYING OF SUCH TAX; DEFINING TRANSIENTS FOR THIS PURPOSE; AND PROVIDING PENALTIES FOR ITS VIOLATION.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES ORDAIN as follows:

Section 1. That PART III of the Municipal Code be amended by the addition of a new division to be known as "Division 6" which shall read as follows:

DIVISION 6
TRANSIENT LODGING TAX

Section 450. DEFINITIONS. The following words and phrases when used in this division shall, for the purposes of this division, have the following respective meanings, except where the context clearly indicates a different meaning:

a) TRANSIENT. Any person who, for a period of not more than thirty (30) consecutive days, either at his own expense or at the expense of another, obtains lodging or the use of any lodging space in any hostelry as hereinafter defined, for which lodging or use of lodging space a charge is made.

b) HOSTELRY. Any public or private hotel, inn, hostelry, tourist home or house, motel, rooming house, or other lodging place within the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, wherein the owner or operator thereof for compensation furnishes lodging to any transient as hereinabove defined.

c) OPERATOR. Any person, firm, corporation, trustee, estate, joint stock company, or any other group or combination acting as a unit, operating a hostelry, whether as owner, lessee, sub-lessee, mortgagee-in-possession, or licensee, and collecting room rental from any transient as compensation for furnishing rooms or lodging to any transient.

d) ROOM RENTAL. The total charge made by any operator for rooms, lodging and/or lodging space furnished any transient. If the charge made by such operator includes any charge for services or accommodations in addition to that of lodging and/or the use of lodging space, then such portion of the total charge as represents room rental shall be distinctly set out and billed to such transient by such operator as a separate item.

Section 451. IMPOSITION AND RATE OF TAX. For the privilege of renting rooms or furnishing lodging to transients within the City, a tax is hereby imposed on the operator of any hostelry at the rate of three per cent (3%) of the total amount of room rental collected by said operator for the furnishing of such lodging, or renting of such rooms to transients on and after October 1, 1962.

Section 452. REIMBURSEMENT. The tax hereby imposed shall be collected by the operator from the transient, insofar as it can be done.

Section 453. UNLAWFUL ADVERTISING. It is unlawful for any operator to advertise or hold out or state to the public or any transient, directly or indirectly, that the tax or any part thereof will be assumed or absorbed by the operator, or that it will not be added to the room rental, or that, if added, it or any part thereof will be refunded.

Section 454. DISPOSITION OF PROCEEDS. All monies collected under and pursuant to the provisions of this division shall be deposited and paid into the Capital Outlay Fund of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, and not less than one-half (½) of such monies collected shall be used for the acquisition of parks and recreation lands, and the balance of said monies for the acquisition and improvement of land for municipal purposes; provided further that all such acquisition and improvement in any case to be in accordance with the General Plan of the city as now or hereafter constituted.

Section 456. APPLICATION FOR PERMIT. Every operator of a hostelry before engaging in the business of operating a hostelry, shall file with the City Clerk an application for a permit for each hostelry from which rooms are to be rented, or lodgings furnished to transients. Every application shall be made upon a form to be prescribed by the City Clerk, and shall set forth the name under which the operator intends to operate his hostelry, the location of the hostelry or hostelries, including all portions of lots and blocks in the City occupied by same, and such other information as the City Clerk may require. The operator shall sign the application; and, if the operator is a corporation, said application shall be signed by an executive officer or some person specifically authorized by the corporation to sign the application, to which shall be attached the written evidence of his authority. Such application required herein shall be made by operators of hostelries in operation at the effective date of the ordinance enacting this division, within fifteen (15) days after the effective date of such ordinance.

Section 457. ISSUANCE AND DISPLAY OF PERMIT. After compliance with Section 456 of this division by the operator, the City Clerk shall grant and issue to each operator a separate permit for each separate hostelry from which rooms or lodgings will be furnished. A permit is not assignable and is valid only for the operator in whose name it is issued, and for the operation of a hostelry at the place designated therein. The permit shall at all times be conspicuously displayed at the place for which issued.

Section 458. DUE DATE AND PAYMENT OF TAX. The taxes imposed by this division are due and payable to the City Clerk on or before the last day of the month next succeeding each quarterly period, the first payment under this division falling due on January 31, 1963, and thereafter on the last day of each succeeding April, July, October, and January.

Section 459. RETURNS. On or before the last day of the month following each quarterly period of three months, a return for the preceding quarterly period shall be filed with the City Clerk in such form as he shall require, by any operator collecting room rental during said period, said report to show the total amount of room rental collected by said operator for said period. The City Clerk may require returns to show the total rentals or other gross receipts of operator at the location of the hostelry, and an explanation in detail of any discrepancy, if any.

Section 460. DELIVERY OF RETURN AND REMITTANCE. The operator required to file the return shall deliver the return, together with the remittance of the amount of the tax due, to the City Clerk.

Section 461. EXTENSION OF TIME. WAIVER OR COMPROMISE. The City Clerk shall have power, for good cause shown, to extend for a period of not to exceed thirty (30) days the time for making any return or paying any amount required to be paid under this division when requested so to do in writing, before the same becomes delinquent. The City Clerk may, with the written approval of the City Attorney, waive or compromise any penalty or interest that would otherwise accrue under the provisions of this ordinance. The City Clerk shall make and transmit to the City Council quarterly a detailed report of any sums so waived or compromised with the reasons therefor.

Section 462. DEFICIENCY DETERMINATIONS.

a) RECOMPUTATION OF TAX; AUTHORITY TO MAKE; BASIS OF RECOMPUTATION. If the City Clerk is not satisfied with the return or returns of the tax or the amount of tax required to be paid to the City by any operator, he may compute and determine the amount required to be paid upon the basis of the facts contained in the return or returns or upon the basis of any information within his possession or that may come into his possession. One or more deficiency determinations may be made of the amount due for one or for more than one period.

b) INTEREST ON DEFICIENCY. The amount of the determination, exclusive of penalties, shall bear interest at the rate of one-half of one per cent (½ of 1%) per month, or fraction thereof, from the fifteenth day after the close of the quarterly period for which the amount or any portion thereof should have been returned until the date of payment.

c) PENALTY; NEGLIGENCE OR DISREGARD OF RULES AND REGULATIONS. If any part of the deficiency for which a deficiency determination is made is due to negligence or intentional disregard of this division or authorized rules and regulations, a penalty of ten per cent (10%) of the amount of the determination shall be added thereto.

d) PENALTY FOR FRAUD OR INTENT TO EVADE. If any part of the deficiency for which a deficiency determination is made is due to fraud or an intent to evade this division or authorized rules and regulations, a penalty of twenty-five per cent (25%) of the amount of the determination shall be added thereto.

e) NOTICE OF CITY CLERK'S DETERMINATION; SERVICE OF. The City Clerk shall give to the operator written notice of his determination. The notice may be served personally or by mail; if by mail, service shall be made pursuant to Section 1013 of the Code of Civil Procedure and shall be addressed to the operator at his address as it appears in the records of the City Clerk. In case of service by mail of any notice required by this division, the service is complete at the time of deposit in the United States Post Office.

f) TIME WITHIN WHICH NOTICE OF DEFICIENCY DETERMNATION TO BE MAILED. Except in the case of fraud, intent to evade this division or authorized rules and regulations, or failure to make a return, every notice of a deficiency determination shall be mailed within three (3) years after the fifteenth day of the calendar month following the quarterly period for which th amount is proposed to be determined or within three (3) years after the return is filed, whichever period expires the later.

The limitation specified in this section does not apply in case of a tax proposed to be determined with respect to occupancies of which notice of a deficiency determination has been or is given.

Section 463. DETERMINATION IF NO RETURN MADE.

a) ESTIMATE OF GROSS RECEIPTS; COMPUTATION OF TAX PENALTY. If any operator fails to make a return, the City Clerk shall make an estimate of the amount of the gross receipts of the operation, or, as the case may be, of the amount of the total rentals in this City which are subject to the tax. The estimate shall be made for the period or periods in respect to which the operator failed to make a return and shall be based upon any information which is in the City Clerk's possession or may come into his possession. Upon the basis of this estimate, the City Clerk shall compute and determine the amount required to be paid to the City, adding to the sum thus arrived at a penalty equal to ten per cent (10%) thereof. One or more determinations may be made for one or for more than one period.

b) INTEREST ON AMOUNT FOUND DUE. The amount of the determinations, exclusive of penalties, shall bear interest at the rate of one-half of one per cent (½ of 1%) per month, or fraction thereof, from the last day of the month following the close of the quarterly period for which the amount or any portion thereof should have been returned until the date of payment.

c) PENALTY FOR FRAUD OR INTENT TO EVADE. If the failure of any operator to file a return is due to fraud or an intent to evade this division or rules and regulations, a penalty of twenty-five per cent (25%) of the amount required to be paid by the person, exclusive of penalties, shall be added thereto in addition to the ten per cent (10%) penalty provided in Section 463 (a).

d) GIVING OF NOTICE; MANNER OF SERVICE. Promptly after making his determination, the City Clerk shall give to the operator written notice of the estimate, determination and penalty, the notice to be served personally or by mail in the manner prescribed for service of notice of a deficiency determination.

Section 464. REDETERMINATIONS.

a) RIGHT TO PETITION FOR; TIME TO FILE PETITION. Any operator against whom a determintion is made under this division or any operator directly interested may petition for a redetermination within thirty (30) days after service upon the operator of notice thereof. If a petition for redetermination is not filed within the 30-day period, the determination becomes final at the expiration of the period.

b) GRANT OF ORAL HEARING; NOTICE, CONTINUANCES. If a petition for redetermination is filed within the 30-day period, the City Clerk shall reconsider the determination and, if the person has so requested in his petition, shall grant the operator an oral hearing and shall give him ten (10) days' notice of the time and place of the hearing. The City Clerk may continue the hearing from time to time as may be necessary.

c) ALTERATION OF DETERMINATION; LIMITATION ON RIGHT TO INCREASE AMOUNT. The City Clerk may decrease or increase the amount of the determination before it becomes final, but the amount may be increased only if a claim for the increase is asserted by the City Clerk at or before the hearing.

d) FINALITY OF ORDER ON PETITION. The order or decision of the City Clerk upon a petition for redetermination becomes final thirty (30) days after service upon the petitioner of notice thereof, unless appeal of such order or decision is filed with the City Council within fifteen (15) days after service of such notice.

e) RIGHT OF APPEAL TO COUNCIL. If appeal of such order on petition made pursuant to Section 464 (d) is filed with the City Council after fifteen (15) days of service of such notice, the City Council shall grant a hearing to such operator so appealing and shall set the time of such hearing at the next regular Council meeting. The Council at such hearing shall have full power to review the determinations of the City Clerk and may modify the determination of tax due. The decision of the City Council after said hearing shall be a final determination in the matter.

f) TIME FOR PAYMENT OF AMOUNTS FOUND DUE; PENALTY FOR DELINQUENCY. All determinations made by the City Clerk under Section 463 (a) or 464 (a) of this division are due and payable at the time they become final. If they are not paid when due and payable, a penalty of ten per cent (10%) of the amount of the determination, exclusive of interest and penalties, shall be added thereto.

g) MANNER OF SERVING NOTICES. Any notice relating to redetermination proceedings shall be served personally or by mail in the manner prescribed for service of notice of a deficiency determination.

Section 465. PENALTIES AND INTEREST FOR FAILURE TO PAY TAX. Any operator who fails to pay any tax to the City, required by this division, except amounts of determinations made by the City Clerk under Sections 462 (a), 463 (a), and 464 (a) of this division, within the time required shall pay a penalty of ten per cent (10%) of the tax or amount of the tax, in addition to the tax or amount of tax, plus interest at the rate of one-half of one per cent (½ of 1%) per month, or fraction thereof, from the date on which the tax or the amount of tax required to be collected became due and payable to the City until the date of payment.

Section 466. COLLECTION OF TAX. All taxes hereby levied shall be payable to the City Clerk, and any civil suit for the collection thereof may be filed in any court of competent jurisdiction in the State of California, and the City Attorney of said City shall prosecute the action.

Section 467. SUCCESSOR LIABILITY.

a) DUTY OF SUCCESSORS OR ASSIGNEES OF OPERATOR TO WITHHOLD TAX FROM PURCHASE MONEY. If any operator liable for any amount under this division sells out his business or quits the business, his successors or assigns shall withhold sufficient of the purchase price to cover such amount until the former owner produces a receipt from the City Clerk showing that he has been paid or a certificate stating that no amount is due.

b) LIABILITY FOR FAILURE TO WITHHOLD; CERTIFICATE OF NOTICE OF AMOUNT DUE; TIME TO ENFORCE SUCCESSOR'S LIABILITY. If the purchaser of a business fails to withhold purchase price as required, he becomes personally liable for the payment of the amount required to be withheld by him to the extent of the purchase price, valued in money. Within thirty (30) days after receiving a written request from the purchaser for a certificate, the City Clerk shall either issue the cerificate or mail notice to the purchaser at his address as it appears on the records of the City Clerk of the amount that must be paid as a condition of issuing the certificate. Failure of the City Clerk to mail the notice will release the purchaser from any further obligation to withhold purchase price as above provided. The time within which the obligation of a successor may be enforced shall start to run at the time the operator sells out his business or at the time that the determination against the operator becomes final, whichever event occurs the later.

Section 468. DETERMINATION OF TAX UPON TRANSFER OF HOSTELRY BY OPERATOR. Any operator of a hostelry transferring his interest as operator to a successor or assignee shall make a final return within fifteen (15) days after transfer and remit the amount due on such final return together with such return as herein provided. The period covered by such final return shall be any period for which tax is due since the last quarterly return due from the operator and up to and including the time said operator terminated operations. On failure to make such return, the City Clerk may make a determination of the final amount due in the same manner as provided in Section 463 hereinabove. In the event that the transferring operator does not make the return required by this section, any successor shall remain liable as provided in Section 467 hereinabove upon being notified by the City Clerk that such final return has not been filed by the transferring operator until either such return and remittance is made or determination of the transferring operator's tax has has been determined as provided in Section 463. Provisions of this section in case of conflict with Section 467 shall prevail.

Section 469. ADMINISTRATION.

a) RECORDS REQUIRED FROM OPERATORS, ETC., FORM. Every operator shall keep such records, receipts, invoices, and other pertinent papers in such form as the City Clerk may require.

b) EXAMINATION OF RECORDS; INVESTIGATIONS. The City Clerk or any person authorized in writing by him may examine the books, papers, records and equipment of any person, firm, or corporation renting lodging space and any operator liable for the tax and may investigate the character of the business of the person, firm, or corporation in order to verify the accuracy of any return made, or, if no return is made by the person, firm or corporation, to ascertain and determine the amount required to be paid.

c) AUTHORITY TO REQUIRE REPORTS; CONTENTS. In administration of the tax the City Clerk may require the filing of reports by any person or class of persons having in his or their possession or custody information relating to rentals which are subject to the tax. The reports shall be filed when the City Clerk requires and shall set forth the rental charged for each occupancy, the date or dates of occupancy, and such other information as the City Clerk may require.

d) DISCLOSURE OF BUSINESS OF OPERATORS, ETC.; LIMITATION ON RULE. It is unlawful for the City Clerk or any person having an administrative duty under this division to make known in any manner whatever the business affairs, operations, or information obtained by an investigation of records and equipment of any operator or any other person visited or examined in the discharge of official duty, or the amount or source of income, profits, losses, expenditures, or any particular thereof, set forth or disclosed in any return, or to permit any return or copy thereof or any book containing any abstract or particulars thereof to be seen or examined by any person. Successors, receivers, trustees, executors, administrators, assignees and guarantors, if directly interested, may be given information as to the items included in the measure and amount of any unpaid tax or amounts of tax required to be collected, interest and penalties.

Section 470. SAVING CLAUSE. This division shall not apply to any operator as to whom, or to any occupancy as to which, it is beyond the power of the City Council to impose the tax herein provided. If any section, subsection, subdivision, paragraph, sentence, clause or

AN OLD SPA AT THE END OF A MISERABLE MOUNTAIN ROAD

If this puts you off, know also that this MMR is scenic, exhilarating, grand, challenging * and nearly the last of the lot. It leads to a place of sunshine and serenity, a resort in the old tradition set in the center of one of California's last great wilderness areas.

Our food is seasoned and imaginatively planned. Our recreations are gentle and imaginatively unplanned. Possibly Tassajara is the place in the country you've been hoping to find.

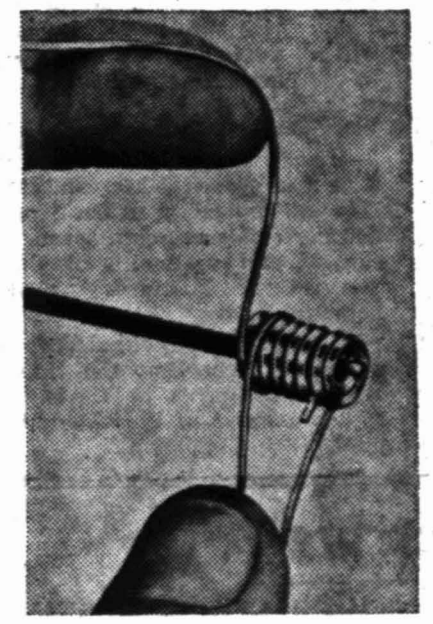
WHAT'S DOING

D. D. Muir, your Telephone Manager in Carmel



It may not look like much, but this newly-developed little gadget—called a Coil Spring Connector—is going to save a lot of time in putting telephone service in new buildings. It's a way telephone people have found to connect and splice plastic-covered wire without stripping off the insulation. They just loop the wire around the coil and pull. The wire snaps in, the coil cuts through the insulation, and contact is made.

Makes a better contact, too, than the old hand-stripping way, and saves a lot of time. It's a saving that helps keep the cost of your telephone service down at the same time we improve its quality and usefulness.

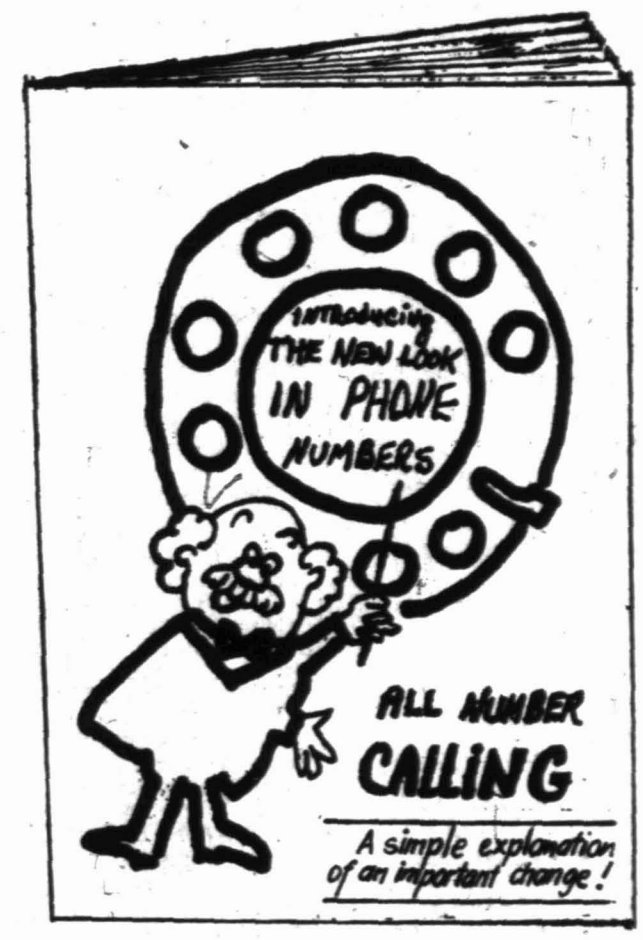
NEW LOOK IN TELEPHONE NUMBERS



We have an interesting booklet that explains the change in telephone numbers from prefix names to ALL NUMBERS. If you would like one of these booklets just call our business office 375-4101. We'll gladly send you one.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Man's dominion over the bondage of materialism will be set forth in Christian Science churches this Sunday.

Selections from the Bible and correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will comprise the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Soul."

The Golden Text is from Exodus (20): "I am the Lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. Thou shalt have no other gods before me."

This citation will be read from Science and Health (p. 14): "Entirely separate from the belief and dream of material living, is the Life divine, revealing spiritual understanding and the consciousness of man's dominion over the whole earth. This understanding casts out error and heals the sick, and with it you can speak 'as one having authority.'"

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ray Luce, above, are seen walking down the aisle of the Church of the Wayfarer after their marriage on Wednesday afternoon of last week. The bride is the former Jennie Tracy Wolter, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Luis F. Wolter of Carmel Valley. Her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Luce of McCall, Idaho. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Luis F. Wolter II, wore a floor-length sheath of white bridal satin, with a scoop neck, short sleeves and an empire waist. Her waist-length veil was held by a pearl tiara, and she carried white carnations on a white Rainbow Bible.

Dawn Loewen of Hanford was Jennie's maid of honor and only attendant, her street-length dress was embroidered azure blue silk organza over satin, and her veiled halo hat was a matching shade of blue. She carried a French bouquet of pale pink carnations.

Russel Tracy Wolter, another brother of the bride, was the best man. Ushers were Joseph Goodrick and Ken F. Winslow.

Taking the place of the bride's mother, Mrs. Myrtle Ollason wore a black and white silk print, a white feathered pill box hat, white gloves, black patent leather shoes and bag. Her corsage was pale pink orchids.

Mrs. Luce chose a beige silk organza dress with beige accessories, a green organza hat, and a green and brown orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held outdoors in perfect summer weather at Los Laureles Lodge. The young couple cut a special Danish wedding cake which had been brought from Solvang, where Jennie and Donald will make their home this fall.

When the newlyweds left for a honeymoon trip to Idaho, Jennie was wearing a yellow suit with a striped sleeveless blouse and otter and bone accessories. She pinned on a corsage of tiger lilies.

The bride, a graduate of Monterey Union High School, Monterey Peninsula College and San Francisco State College, is a Past Worthy Advisor of the Rainbow Girls and won the 4-H Diamond Star. Last year she was a second grade teacher in Buellton, and will teach there again this year.

Donald graduated from the University of California at Berkeley, where he lived in International House. He is an instructor of English at the Santa Ynez Valley Union High School.

Among the out of town guests at the ceremony and reception were the bride's sister, Mrs. Owen K. King (Luciguela Wolter) of Bellevue, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Ken F. Winslow, Berkeley; Colonel and Mrs. Fred Wunderlich, Palo Alto; Mr. and Mrs. O. H. P. King, Pacific Palisades; Mr. and Mrs. Art Houghton, San Francisco; Miss Dorothy Duncan, Berkeley; Colonel and Mrs. Jim Hayden, Berkeley; Mr. and Mrs. Thor Johnson, Santa Clara; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Tea Dance For Clonard

It was a clear summer evening on Sunday for the tea dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Bunn of Pebble Beach for their daughter, Clonard.

Several hundred guests, friends of Clonard's and of her parents', gathered under a flower decorated marquee set up in the garden of the Bunn home. Here refreshments were served at small tables, and there was dancing to Al Trobbe's band which came down from San Francisco for the occassion.

Has Anyone Seen A Shaggy Dog?

Topper is lost!

Allen Kreger of Carmel Knolls attends Frederick Military Academy and his dog, Topper, has accompanied him on his two trips to the school in Virginia.

When he came home this summer, Allen's father told him it was too expensive to send Topper back with him this year. So Allen spent his vacation earning the necessary $40 to pay Topper's fare.

Allen goes back to school on 24 August..... but Topper took a walk last Saturday and hasn't returned.

Allen has combed Carmel Knolls, also knocked at every door and asked "Have you seen my dog?" No one has.

Now Allen is asking everyone in Carmel the same question. Born two years ago in Carmel Knolls, Topper is part pedigreed poodle, part pedigreed beagle. He has a shaggy charcoal-black coat and red whiskers.

If anyone, anywhere, since Saturday, has seen a dog like this, Allen's telephone number is MA 4-8832. He has only a week left in which to search.

Allen will be a sad and lonely boy if he has to go back to school without Topper next Friday.

Business District Rezoning Protests

zoning Smith had earlier explained, "our purpose is to avoid intensive commercial uses directly across the street from residential districts." But the protesting property owners came on nevertheless. Anthony Vasconcellos, owner of a multi-zoned parcel of land on the southwest corner of Junipero and Third Avenue, complained that the threat of tighter zoning has already made leasing of existing premises difficult. Vasconcellos, who in May had plans for an elaborate motel approved for the site, had been cautioned at that time the rezoning was imminent and the commercial aspects of the plans would have to conform to C-1-L requirements.

The Commission, sitting as a board of adjustments, also heard three applications for use permits, two of which sought declaration of building sites. The Carmel Citizens Committee also asked a one-year extension of its permit to maintain a bulletin board on Dolores north of Ocean. No protests were entered, and it appeared that when the board receives committee reports at the meeting next Wednesday approval will be granted in each case.

Sunset School Fire Prevention Plan

At a special meeting yesterday afternoon, members of the Carmel Unified School District's board of education approved a landscaping contract for the new junior high school grounds and authorized preparation of a plan for a sprinkler, warning and fire alarm system for Sunset School and its auditorium.

The firm of Daniels and House, low bidder, $56,322, was awarded a contract to develop court areas and install a sprinkler system for planted areas immediately around the junior high buildings, also for planting and trees, the latter mostly pines and oaks. Originally budgeted for this landscaping was the amount of $47,500, or $8,822 less than the lowest bid received.

The board decided to delay landscaping outer areas as the county is buying a 50-foot strip along the entire front of the campus to provide land for four-lane development of Carmel Valley Road at this point. This construction will mean direct access to the school from the road instead of off a parallel lateral. Thomas Elston, school architect, estimated the change may save the district $3,800 of the $17,000 budgeted for landscaping of the entrance area. Money to assist this project may be provided from the $23,000 contingency reserve fund, Assistant Superintendent Wayne Greenfield indicated.

The board authorized the Barnard Engineering Company of Redwood City to prepare a plan for the fire prevention measures at Sunset School. Fee for the plan will be five per cent of the bid finally selected for the work.

Sanitary Board Asks For Reappointment

Members of the Carmel Sanitary District Board, this week, unanimously voted to ask the Monterey County Board of Supervisors to reappoint James B. Pruitt and Allen Knight to fill vacancies created by the expiration of the two men's terms.

Pruitt was the only person to file nomination papers. As there was no contest, the board adopted a resolution that no election be held. Secretary Chris Neddersen was instructed to inform the supervisors, by letter, of the sanitary board's decisions.

If approved, Pruitt and Knight will serve on the board until August, 1964. Other members of the board are Willis I. Shepard, Harold Arnot and John D. Gates.

Edgar Bryant Found Dead At Sur Resort

This afternoon, Karen Williams Bryant arrived from Los Angeles, called here by the death of her husband, Edgar Reeve Bryant, 46, who apparently died yesterday of suffocation from a smouldering mattress in a cabin at Slates Hot Springs south of Big Sur.

He registered at the resort 8 August. Previous to this he was the guest of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meade Williams, in Carmel. He had been employed as night auditor at a motel in Southern California and told them he had come to this area for business reasons. He and his wife had been separated for over a year.

Edgar Bryant was born on 30 March, 1916. He was the son of Mrs. Betty Bryant, former Carmel resident now in a San Francisco area rest home. His late father was a physician in the Bay area.

He was a graduate of Stanford University. During World War II, he served as a lieutenant Commander in the U. S. Navy. His marriage took place in Carmel in 1955 and he was active in local little theatre productions both before and after this time.

In addition to his wife and mother, he leaves a daughter, Jessica, six years old.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Dorney and Farlinger Memorial Chapel.

THEATER REVIEW

Dear Sir:

This is one time when I feel the urgency of expressing my personal pleasure and offering my congratulations. The review of the performance and of Jean Anouilh's play, The Thieves' Carnival, was superbly handled in your issue of 9 August.

The perceptive judgement of your critic, his shrewd analysis of the "nonexistent" play and the well balanced and subtle account of the performance, all was of fine quality; so well written, too.

I certainly agree that this light play does not do honor to Anouilh, whose other work is of such worth. The Actors' Company deserves a better vehicle.

Yours very truly,
Jehanne Salinger Carlson

P.S. By the way, who was the writer of this review? Don't be so modest. Bylines are quite honorable.

(Editor's Note: It was me. Or was it I?)

AMBULANCE CALLS

The Red Cross ambulance operated by Carmel Volunteer Fire Department members answered two calls yesterday afternoon and took Mrs. Charlotte Murphy of San Francisco, also Elmer S. Bean of Seaside, to the Community Hospital.

Mrs. Murphy collapsed in Sambo's Pancake House at 1:09 p.m. Bean received leg, arm and facial injuries when he fell off his truck at 2:30 p.m. while loading it with brush on Oak Place.
